

Nuance Jewelry's Fall Collection is Modern, Exquisite & Emulates Natural Elements

PHILADELPHIA, PA (SEPTEMBER XX, 2016) – Fall in love with jewelry again this season as acclaimed designer Wendee Daelhousen unveils what is sure to be her most creative and artistically driven Nuance collection to date.

Embodying strong designs that are mostly rooted in nature including the eye-catching Crystal Leaf Earrings or the bolder statement stud earrings like the Rutilated Quartz Earrings, every piece is created to be noticed.

“

I wanted to have more fun with these pieces and ensure that they could take women from day to evening – especially around the holiday season.

Daelhousen also got a little more artistic in this collection, displaying her love for color and design. The Nuance Picasso Falling Frames Earrings as well as the Radiant Light Necklace both add the perfect statement pieces to any look.

“This collection meant a lot to me because it allowed me to stretch my wings a little,” said Daelhousen. “I wanted to have more fun with these pieces and ensure that they could take women from day to evening – especially around the holiday season.”

Daelhousen, who is no stranger to knowing what women want, previously worked with John Wind – Maximal Art, Anthropologie, Terrain, BHLDN, Disney and Country Living, before launching Nuance on her own. Located in Philadelphia, Pa., Nuance is one of the most well respected jewelry houses in the city and abroad. Daelhousen’s pieces have graced the pages of national fashion magazines as well as hit television shows. However, what remains the most important to Daelhousen is the fact that every piece of jewelry is designed, sold, packaged and even promoted by other small businesses Daelhousen personally knows and trusts.

When I started Nuance it was because I truly believed that I could make quality jewelry right here in the United States and that I could pay my team fairly,” she said. “I still hold on to this philosophy and believe it shows in our work and our business ethic.”
